CALB POWERS' OWN STORY.

As Seen by A Leading Minister of Lexington, Ky.

[By JAMES W. ZACHARY.]

I seldom volunteer my praise of any book or the cause it pleads, but having before me a copy of "My Own Story" by my persecuted friend, Caleb Powers, Kentucky's victim of pusillanimous Goebelism, I count it a pleasure and a duty to write this eulogium.

The volume of 490 neatly printed and nicely bound pages, published by the Bobbs-Merrill Company, Indianapolis, Ind., is a gem of literary excellence, logic, legal acumen and mechanical skill. The book is well worth the price, $1.50, and deserves to be read by every justice-loving American citizen for two very patent reasons.

First—The Intrinsic Value of the Book—It is a volume of forty chapters, beginning with the childhood of Caleb Powers, and after detailing some interesting experiences of his youth, takes up his collegiate and political career and closes with an accurate account of the very exciting and humiliating conditions existing in Kentucky during the Goebel campaign and contest, together with the facts in the farcical trials and convictions that followed.

The whole narration is more fascinating than fiction, true as gospel and more thrilling than romance. The able, eloquent speech of Powers in his own defense before the jury will live in the literature of the world to be read and praised by generations yet unborn, long after the author has heard the plaudits: "Well done, thou good and faithful servant."

The reader can catch the style of the book from Powers' reference to his mother on page 27: "A brave, noller, more generous heart has never found lodgment in the human breast, than my mother's. There is scarcely enough cruelty in her whole being to brush the down from a butterfly's wing. Her life is unselfish as the kiss of the summer's sun, her children have been her world; for them she has lived."

Second—The Righteous Cause which it Pleads—Herein is shown the tyranny, injustice and persecution suffered by the gallant, cultured Kentucky mountaineer, the victim of a political conspiracy against human life and liberty, as foul as any that ever disgraced Kentucky soil. It could not be otherwise under the management and prosecution of T. C. Campbell, the notorious attorney, now dead and in hell.

It were better that fifty guilty men go unpunished than that one innocent man be hung. I am conversant with the facts in the arrest and malicious prosecution of Powers. I was preaching eight miles from Frankfort, Ky., when Goebel was shot. The man who shot him should be punished. But the bold, bare assumption, which is the very bedrock of the prosecution, that the Republican officials, such sensible men as John S. Sweeney, Gov. Taylor and Caleb Powers formed a conspiracy to kill him and did kill Senator Goebel is, on its very face, under the then existing conditions, so lacking in primary motive, of explanation, so contrary to every sensible motive that human ingenuity can devise, so absurd, so absolutely idiotic that, as a disinterested citizen, I am amazed that any sane man could be so swayed by his political prejudice to believe such a proposition, even for one moment. It is as sensible to suppose that the disciples of Christ stole his body from Joseph's tomb and then deny his resurrection. Far more sensible to suppose that Goebel was shot by some shrewd personal enemy, yet undiscovered, or even that some shrewd Democrat foresaw that the death of Goebel was the only possible sacrifice that would out the Republicans and continue the reign of Goebelism in Kentucky, and therefore killed him. For there is no denial of the fact that thousands of Democrats bolted the party and voted for the Republicans and that a Democratic election board counted them by in over 3,000 majority, and that if a Democratic Legislature had arbitrarily ousted the Republicans elected by the people with the death of Goebel charged as a chief reason therefor, it would have been such an insult to the manhood of Kentucky that hell would have been frozen over before such Democrats would ever have a chance to repeat such an infamous outrage. The only possible hope of success was in the death of Senator Goebel. There existed then a philosophic and political reason why some Democrats should either wound Senator Goebel and charge the crime to the Republicans, and there is every reason why it would have advantaged the Republicans to prevent his death; but no living man can assign a sensible motive, a philosophic reason, why the Republican officials would conspire together to procure the death of Goebel—when men with even half sense could foresee that such a course would be even worse than political suicide.

There never has been, and there never can be, a conspiracy adroitly laid by shrewd men, without underlying it there is a primary motive, a philosophic explanation, which under the laws of mental philosophy as true as the tremulous needle to its pole, points with unerring certainty from cause to the effect indicating why men under the existing circumstances would rationally carry out the plans of the conspiracy. The Republican officials were not the veriest idiots and the charge of conspiracy is a Democratic subterfuge, of the basest type, the motive of which is easily explained.

If there is any proof, beyond reasonable doubt, that Powers is guilty he should be condemned, but not without first giving him a fair trial as his liberty and his life are in jeopardy. Fair trials and honest dealings in the courts is the bulwark of our civilization. Every citizen should denounce with supreme contempt such partisanship, political intrigue, perjury and bribery in any court of jurisprudence, as has been evident in the three trials and convictions of Caleb Powers by packed juries of political enemies, under the management of Tom C. Campbell, whom Robert Noakes, one of the state witnesses for the prosecution, afterwards swore was "one of the damnedest rascals" he had ever met.

The affidavits of Noakes and Anderson are printed in the book uncovering the most deep dyed rascality, bribery and perjury ever known in a fair and impartial trial, when his liberty is denied in a Kentucky court. Under these methods, instituted by political hate, the prosecution has sought to hang an innocent man and "damn the Republican party" by packed juries of a political party."

Against such dishonorable dealing, such outrageous conduct, such inhumanity to man, I sternly protest, and commend "My Own Story," which in a manly, forcible way exposes the course of the prosecution.

Any honest, unbiased man who will honestly consider the facts in the book will believe in the innocence of Caleb Powers, and I hope that ten thousand of my friends will immediately send $1.50, in check or money order, addressed: Caleb Powers, Care of Jail, Newport, Ky., and get a copy of his book to read and pass among the neighbors and thus give financial aid to a Kentucky mountain boy, as honest as ever lived, as fearless as ever faced a foe, as patriotic as ever died for his country, and now without money is encompassed by a foul political persecution, arrested three times, tried and finally convicted and sentenced to be hung by packed juries and manufactured evidence of his political opponents, among whom he is as likely to get justice as a lamb in a den of lions is likely to escape without injury. Thus far he has been saved by his undaunted courage and tireless struggle for his life and liberty, by the loyalty of his numerous friends and by the honor inherent in the higher courts of Kentucky which have three times reversed the partisan prosecuting judgments, thus rebuking the political chicanery of the lower courts, which with malice aforethought would commit murder under the terms and technicalities of law, like the Legislature of Kentucky committed robbery and theft by the unreasonable, unjust and arbitrary expulsion of the Republican officials. The honorable course of the Supreme Court of Kentucky in the main sustains the position set forth in this review of Powers' most timely and praiseworthy book.

Order the book to-day, lest you forget or neglect it to-morrow.

Supt. M. G. Hignite.

Supt. Hignite has just closed his last Institute as Supt. of the public schools of Knox county. The Institute was a marked success. The leading teachers, in nearly all the teachers, claim it to be the best ever held in Knox county.

Supt. Hignite goes out with the firmest friendship of all his teachers.

The following resolutions were offered and adopted unanimously:

RESOLUTIONS.

We, the teachers of Knox county in Institute assembled, do hereby congratulate ourselves upon the success which we fell has attended this session of our Institute. We believe that the interest generally manifested by the teachers has been greater than in any previous session, and that the teachers will return to their respective work with fuller appreciation of their duties and responsibilities.

We extend to the citizens of Barbourville our appreciation for their cordial and courteous reception given us during our stay among them, and especially are we grateful to the Merchants for the kindly interest with which they contributed to the success of our evening session.

Whereas, The teachers of the Public Schools in which those desiring to teach can receive professional training and that we second the efforts of the Educational Improvement Commission to secure three such schools by enactment of the next General Assembly.

That we appreciate the forward step already taken by our Legislature in the interest of public education in securing longer terms, and we urge such legislation as will give longer terms and better pay for teachers.

That we pledge ourselves, as a body of teachers, to use our efforts to make our District Associations a greater success this year than ever before, and through them arouse that educational spirit among the public which will result in a proper appreciation of the opportunities extended them.

That we congratulate Superintendent Hignite upon his successful service as superintendent of our county. We believe that he has accomplished much for our school system, especially in securing better houses and stamping out many evils which have heretofore existed.

That we express our most hearty admiration of the able and efficient work of our instructor, R. M. Shipp, and we take pleasure in recommending him as a man competent for thorough and practical institute work, and we hope to have him with us again as instructor in the future.

A. R. EVANS, Chm'n.

FINE OPENING

For Development of Knox County with But Little Outlay of Capital.

One of the finest openings for development work that this section ever had is now awaiting some one to come with a reasonable amount of capital. Already about twelve miles of the Cumberland railroad is being built, leading up Brush creek from the L. and N. railway, and on the other hand the Birdseye company has a road seven miles in length from Jellico, Tenn. This only leaves a gap of a few miles to connect the two roads. If the proper steps were taken, these roads could be connected and thus open up a road through to Jellico and the South. There are as fine coal fields and timber lands along this route as can be found in the State, and the land can be bought from $12 to $25 per acre. These veins of coal range in thickness from three to eight feet.

It is also proposed to continue this railroad on through Barbourville, Manchester and Booneville to Beattyville, where it would tap the L. and E. and C. and N. and the Kentucky river navigation. Here is the great opportunity for capitalists that can be found in the State of Kentucky to-day.

Now is the opportunity for speculators to strike, as this land will be increased in value in a short time.

Lands along the Cumberland road now being built has doubled in price since the road was started, and there is other land even better on Golden creek and Little Poplar that will soon be opened by a new railroad.

Those from a distance will find it to their interest to write the Editor of this paper for particulars.

On numerous occasions since we have been a citizen of Knox county have we made the assertion that the oil business would revive again, and that it was only a matter of time until we would witness as much or perhaps more activity along that line than has ever been seen here.

The present prospects are not very favorable but we still insist that the time is coming and we believe that before the opening of another year we will see the movement started along that line. But why wait for the oil business? The people of this community lived a long time before they knew that there was oil here and they made a living then, why should they depend upon this one industry for their living now? Our county ranks almost first in the output of coal, and the strides that are now being made along that line will put Knox county in the fore-front of all the counties of Southern Kentucky in a very short time in the development of the coal industry.

There are now perhaps twenty different mines in operation and new ones being opened constantly in different parts of the county, the largest of which will be the Cumberland Coal Co's mines on Brush creek. These mines when in full operation will employ perhaps from eighteen hundred to two thousand men, and they are now building their own railroad to connect with the L. and N. at Artemus, and extend back to the head of Brush creek.

The opportunity is here for our people to make Knox county the foremost county in the State. The way to do is to take hold with a vim and push each and every enterprise for all that is in it instead of trying to block it off and prevent its success.

The first important step would be to secure a good system of roads. We are further behind along that line any other one thing, and there is no excuse whatever for it. We have an abundance of stone here to make good roads, and there should be steps taken to have our principal roads all macadamized. What advantage is it to our farmers to have good farms and crops, and cannot get their produce to market on account of the horrible condition of the roads. Let's get out of the old rut and take on new life and come to the front, show to the world that the people of Knox county are a thrifty, ambitious, energetic people, and we will soon see that we will be repaid a hundred-fold in the pleasure and satisfaction we would derive from the improved condition of affairs.

The suggestion in our last issue to the effect that the Cumberland wants to come into Barbourville should meet with encouragement from every citizen of our town.

There is a bright future for our town and it is in the power of her citizens to make of Barbourville a city of 5000 inhabitants within the next few years.

We have from the first issue of the ADVOCATE, urged these facts upon our readers, and we have never lost faith in our first claims, although we have at times felt somewhat discouraged by some of citizenship but we know that if a few of our citizens awaken and take hold and help we can make out of Barbourville an up-to-date city in spite of these chronic kickers and grumblers whose only ambition is to own and control the best territory of the town and hold it for enormous prices and drive all kinds of public enterprises from our midst by refusing to improve or sell to those who would improve the town.

What is more unsightly than to see property in the town that should be improved with splendid houses or handsome residences, growing up in weeds or used as a hog pen the stench of which is offensive to the nostrils of the passer by.

Let's wake up and get out of these old ruts and take on the spirit of thrift and do something to make our town what it deserves to be "The Gem of the Mountains."

Our Circuit Judge, clerks, attorneys, jurors, clients and witnesses are all passing through another ordeal in the old sweat-box over in the center of the county. There is no immediate relief, but we do hope that it will not be always this way. We know that if it was left to these people who have to undergo this torture, they would say: "Give us a new Court-house, one that has some accommodations about it!"

Now it will be left to the people to say whether or not we shall have the new Court-house, and as we have frequently stated, the ones who pay the bulk of the taxes are all in favor of it, and the opposition, if there be any, will be among those who pay but a small per cent. of the taxes. Let's make the proposition unanimous in favor of the New Court House by voting to issue bonds and then see to it that the house is built commodious and comfortable, and we will have a public building then on the Public Square that no one can point to with the finger of scorn and ridicule the old "rat trap," but on the contrary will be proud to point with pride and say "Where in the mountains of Kentucky can be found a building to compare with ours?"

We are deserving of the best and should not be content with anything else, especially when we are so abundantly able to have the best so small a cost.

The Indianapolis Star, in commenting upon the Powers case, says: "The persecutors of Caleb Powers let go their grip on him reluctantly. The appeal of Kentucky to the United States Supreme Court against the decision taking the accused man out of the jurisdiction of the State courts is a fresh indication of the malignity with which he is being pursued. It is not justice that Powers' opponents are alter, else they would be satisfied to have him tried in the Federal court."

SHELBY COUNTY is now taking steps to have a new Court-house built. There is now a much better Court-house in Shelbyville than the one in Barbourville, but the people realize that the public buildings are an index to the thrift of the county and they propose to have a new up-to-date Court-house. We should go likewise. There is nothing too good for the people of Knox.

A Guaranteed Cure For Piles.

First application gives ease and rest. 50 cents. If your druggist hasn't it send 50 cents in stamps and it will be forwarded post-paid by Parls Medicine Co. St. Louis, Mo.

WE ARE glad to learn that the heaviest tax-payers of the county are the ones that are urging the bonds for the new Court-house. It would be a shame now for the voters who pay scarcely any tax to oppose the improvement and defeat the proposition when it would be to the detriment of the county to do so, and the new Court-house proposition would not add any cost to them.

Time is passing and yet no active steps are being taken to have the condition of our county roads improved before another winter sets in on us, and ere long we will hear the same old familiar complaint that "The roads are impassable." Now is the time to remedy this evil. Work the roads now and put broken stone in the mud-holes and drain the roads. Let's make a little improve ment over the past anyway.

Isn't it about time for somebody else to go out into the pasture and shake a red rag at Mayor Heimbald, the bellowing bull of Newport?

The Commercial-Appeal of Memphis, says: "The Kentucky courts have found Caleb Powers guilty of being elected Secretary of State and sentenced him to be hanged."

Don't forget Hammer paint if you want paint. It is guaranteed for five years. Hammer paint does not cost any more than ordinary mixed paint. Hammer paint is not a mixed paint. One gallon of Hammer paint and one gallon of pure boiled linseed oil makes two gallons of the best mixed paint on earth.
Don't be persuaded that ordinary mixed paint is as good as the Old Reliable Hammer Paint. If you do you will regret it; but you can't say that it is Cole's fault. Investigate Hammer paint before buying.

Miss Kate England is visiting Miss Sallie Adams, at Lancaster for a few days.

George Tinsley has returned to Casey, Ill., after a several days' visit to homefolks.

Mr. and Mrs. John M. Messer were down from Middlesboro the earlier part of the week.

Mrs. Ed Hurst, of Middlesboro, visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Benj. Matthews this week.

R. P. Black has returned from Putnam county, Tenn., where he has been drilling oil wells for the past several months.

G. A. Lewis, of the Frankfort Roundabout, was in town yesterday and paid this office a pleasant call.

Miss Florence Davis, of Tennessee, Ga., is expected to arrive this evening on a visit to Mrs. S. D. Tuggle, on High street.

Mrs. Carey, who has been quite ill for some time with appendicitis, died at her home Wednesday night on the south side of the river.

Misses Wolfe, Silcott and Patton, who have been the guests of Miss Mayo Tinsley at a house party for two weeks, left Monday morning for their home at Catlettsburg.

Prof. G. H. Reibold, Dean of the Faculty of Union College for this year, preached a very interesting sermon last Sunday night at the Methodist church.

Misses Georgia and Gertrude Black's house party broke up Monday, part of the members going to Estill Springs for a few days and part returning home.

Work has been begun on the administration building of Union College, tearing off the roof and preparing to put on the third story. It will be ready for the opening of the school on the 14th of September.

Almost all the required amount of subscription necessary to begin the erection of the new Methodist church has been subscribed and it is expected that the work will be ready to start at an early date, erecting a modern brick church on the site of the old one.

A crowd of thirty-six young people, chartered by Mesdames Herndon and Smyth, enjoyed a hay ride Monday night. Two wagons were used, four horses being in each. At 11:30 the crowd gathered at the home of Miss Jess Dickinson, where an elegant lunch was served, after which more riding was indulged in, and it was not until one o'clock Tuesday morning that they finally turned in.

Progressive Jolly Party.

One of the most delightful and pleasant events of the season among the young people of our town was the delightful fete given last Saturday evening by Miss Mayo Tinsley at the palatial home of her parents Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Tinsley on Main street in honor of Miss Tinsley's guests and the guests of Mrs. J. G. Matthews, and those of the Misses Black.

The home was beautifully decorated and brilliantly illuminated while the lawn was made more attractive by the appearance of a number of Japanese lanterns suspended from the leafy branches of the trees.

The arrangements, which were rather unique and amusing, were carried out as follows:

Each gentleman present was expected to entertain one lady at a time for five minutes, when the bell would signal him to move on to the next lady, and each gentleman was supposed to jolly his partner during the short space of five minutes. No matter whether they were acquainted or not the rule of etiquette was suspended and no formality of introduction was required. After the circuit had been completed and each boy had talked to each girl present, the girls were each allowed a vote as to who was the jolliest boy present. Mr. O. G. Ragan was voted the jolliest one and was awarded a bottle of cologne as the prize.

There were in all about 60 young folks present to enjoy the hospitality and enjoy the social reception tendered them by their hostess. Icees and cakes were served and the evening was one of pleasure and delight that will never be forgotten by those present.

CRUDE THOUGHTS as they fall from the Editorial Pen. Pleasant Evening Reviews.

GOOD BY OLD HOUSE.

Good bye, old house! the busy and the thrifty
Smothered till now all thought of leaving you!
But the last load has gone, and I've a moment
All by myself, to say an last adieu.
Good bye, old house! I shall not soon forget you.
The witness of so much eventful things—
And walls have ears they say, I hop you cheerish
Each secret that you have heard of mine.
Strange fates will come in and gaze upon you.
Inevitable and endless of each spot
That hold its sacred keeping household treasures.
Ah, well, you need not mind it matters not.
Think, wonder why that nail was driven
In front of Freddy's head at Christmas time.
That he might have, himself, his little stocking.
That hatch marked Willie's delight when he was nine.
Those marks that I have not the heart to trobble,
Joking put there before he went away,
Whence, meanwhile that he might make them doubly.
They meant the days he had at home to stay,
Dear old father, that corner held his coffee
And a round, hot and pain for him were done;
And in that corner too, I have much duty,
Striving to find the way he was wont.
'Twas in that corner Margaret was married,
And that white spot upon the smoky wall
Is where her picture hangs—those three male youths
Were driven to hold her back and snarl and shawl.
And so, old house, you have for every home-look
A strange, peculiar story of your own;
As our bodies do when we have left them,
And powerless alike to make it known.
Good bye, old house, adieu, the night is falling.
Think I think I've wandered from the path I mean,
But more walk through the rooms, and how they echo!
How strange and lonely is their emptiness!

THE word orphan is one of the saddest in human language.

Smiles should be the legal tender in every family for the payment of all debts of kindness and each member should be willing to take this currency at its face value.

We do not need an introduction to a great man to feel his greatness. If you meet a cheerful man on the street on a cold day, you seem to feel the mercury rise several degrees.

A shout at strikes a chord that extends through the universe, touches all moral intelligence, visits every world, vibrates along its whole extent and conveys its vibration to the very bosom of God.

Whom shall we blame when life's joys are tarnished and the sweetness turned to bitterness? Whom shall we blame for the strained and weakened eye that makes the sunlight painful? Whom shall we blame for the seared and dented conscience that makes duty a task and honor a burden? We fancy that the conscience of none of our readers is yet so far denuded that he will not quickly answer "I, myself am to blame."

We resemble insects which assume the color of the leaves and plants they feed upon, for sooner or later we become like the food of our minds, like the creatures that live in our hearts. Every act of our lives, every word, every association, is written with an iron pen into the very texture of our being. The ghosts of our murdered opportunities, squandered forces, killed time, forever rise up to rebuke us and will not down. How hard it is to learn that like begets like; that an acorn will always become an oak if anything; that birds of a feather will flock together. Let our young people especially, remember this and be careful with what "birds" they associate with.

WHEN YOU'RE SORRY SAY SO.

When you've been cross and crude, don't let false pride stand in the way of asking forgiveness.

It isn't always easy to say "I'm sorry" in fact, sometimes it is desperately hard, but once you said it you'll feel so much happier that it's really worth the sacrifice to your foolish pride. The longer you wait the harder it will be to say it; the angry feelings will grow like a snowball, until what has merely been a slight grievance assumes the proportions of a real resentment.

There is no fault so hard to overcome as the hasty temper. We may make any number of good resolutions, and then the first time we have any provocation away we go without an instant's warning, and before we realize what we are doing the unkind words have been spoken, and no matter how much regret we feel they cannot be unsaid.

The strange thing about it is that we so often hurt the people we love the best. Even when we feel forgiveness, though we feel the hurt, we cannot do away with the scar.

As a rule the people who are quick to give offence are equally quick in taking it. Their feelings are easily hurt, and they go about with the proverbial chip so lightly balanced on their shoulders that some one is sure to knock it off, either intentionally or accidentally.

Half the ill feeling in the world could be smoothed out by a few words of explanation, but if on the one side the offender will not say, "I have done anything wrong? If so, I'm sorry," the breach will go on widening until it is irreparable.

If we cannot control our too hasty tongues, we can at least say we are sorry, and save ourselves untold misery and sorrow.

Never let a grievance stand over night; better sacrifice your pride than your piece of mind.

No matter how much of a struggle it is when you're sorry, say so, and "Let not the sun go down upon your wrath."

PUBLIC SCHOOLS OPENED

Unusually Large Attendance; Splendid Interest, and an Excellent Faculty.

On Monday morning the public schools of the city began their year's work with one of the largest enrollments in their history. The public school children are manifesting a most excellent spirit of enthusiasm and interest. The outlook is very promising for one of the best year's work in these schools. In obedience to the law requiring an exchange of the old text books for those adopted by the State, little difficulty is being experienced. The following constitute the Faculty: Prof. B. C. Lewis, principal; W. C. Faulkner, assistant principal; J. L. Hopper and Miss Julia Lewallen.

We are sure with this excellent corps of teachers the character of the school work this year will be of an exceptionally high grade. It is with no small interest that we note a number of changes and plans in the work of our public schools that soon will put us not only in possession of a thoroughly good common school, but likewise a high school of a high grade—just such as every community, especially a county seat as ours, should have. Every true American will be loyal, and with every honorable means foster the interest of public education. In so doing only can we prove, as we desire and should, to be the best friends to the other educational institutions in our midst.

Visiting the Sick.

Last Sunday afternoon a party of Red Men secured a wagon and team and drove a mile and a half in the country to visit Bro. John H. Hurst, who has been suffering for the past month with an abscess in the eye. The party consisted of the following brothers: H. W. Bowman, D. W. Clark, W. D. Chamberlain, William Gregory, A. J. Hale, H. L. Hatton, W. C. Lockhart, Wm. McDaniel, V. C. McDonald, A. C. Vaughn.

THE KIND PAINT TO BUY

KINLOCH

Important Memorandum: We strongly recommend Kinloch Paint. The pure, raw linseed oil is the "life" of paint, and when you buy Kinloch Paint you buy the fresh linseed oil at the same time right out of the barrel. No tallow, gallops for gallop, and you have the best paint that brains can make and money can buy. The cost per gallon is less than for inferior grades of "Ready-Mixed" Paint. "Kinloch" is ready to mix. Come and see us—we'll tell you all about "KINLOCH" and save you money—in first cost, and in the cost per year's wear.

The Teachers' Institute convened at Whitesburg the past week with 65 teachers in attendance.

Our school here has never taken up yet. It seems that we will be without a school this year. Come some one and teach a good school.

Thursday evening of last week Mr. Lee Holbrook, of Ola, led to the marriage altar Miss Lizzie Franklin, the beautiful 15-year-old daughter of Mr. Jackson Franklin. The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. C. Evans, in the presence of a number of invited friends. He, may the path of you and yours be strewn with the loveliest flowers of the garden, and may not a wave of trouble or sorrow interfere with you and your bride while you are in your little boat floating down the fluid stream, is the sincere wish of the writer.

HORRIS POTR.

MORE RESIDENCES

One of the Demands of Barbourville at Present.

Our attention has been called to the fact of late that Barbourville needs more residences in order to accommodate the demand for houses. We know of several good tenants who have searched in vain for the past few days for a house in which to move their families, and as yet have not succeeded in finding any.

It occurs to us that those who own vacant property here would find it very profitable to erect a number of cottage residences that would readily rent from $8 to $10 per month.

There is a steady increase in our population, and if arrangements were made to meet this present demand for houses it would be the means of increasing our population very materially, besides, as we mentioned last week, there is an effort now being made to get the managers of the Cumberland Coal Co. located here, which can be done if the proper steps are taken.

All this means more growth to Barbourville and more improvement and wealth for our town, and our citizens should take advantage of the present opportunity of swelling our population. Let's not stop until the 5,000 mark set by THE ADVOCATE is reached.

You should not be without some of Bowman's fine Mineral drinks during the hot days that are near at hand.
